d. Phase IV.

Subject was now informed that we are going to test the veracity of his explanations, at the beginning of today's interview, to the questions given to him on 6 March 1956. Subject was informed that we are going to review with him all of the questions asked on 6 March and give him an opportunity to further elaborate. Subject was rather anxious to explain in considerable detail his World War II activities.

1. Do you understand Ukrainian? Answer: Yes (No reaction).
3. Were you born on (date of birth)? Answer: Yes (Weak reaction), followed by a delayed medium reaction). Subject named persons that could vouch for his place of birth, but stated that he knows no one at present that could confirm his date of birth. There was a very weak reaction when the question was repeated on the subsequent test.
5. Was your father's name _____? Answer: Yes (Delayed weak reaction). There was a very weak reaction when the question was repeated on the subsequent test.
- 5a. (New question fully discussed with Subject). Did you attend any Soviet intelligence Schools? Answer: No. (Medium reaction). Subject was further interviewed and the question was re-explained. There was no reaction when the question was repeated on the subsequent test.
6. Did you tell us the truth about your educational history? Answer: Yes (Medium reaction). Subject was requested to review his educational history with emphasis placed on his earlier education period, and the possibility that he claims to have more academic education than actually received. Subject very freely explained the conditions under which he was selected by his family to go to school, told what to study and where to go, and some of the personal sacrifices that his mother, brothers, and sisters made to provide him with an education. The reaction diminished slightly in strength when the questions was repeated on the subsequent test.
19. Were you ever a member of the communist party? Answer: No (No reaction). Very weak reaction on the subsequent test.
20. Are you intentionally withholding from us any information concerning your World War II intelligence activities? Answer: No (Weak reaction). The reaction diminished in strength when the question was repeated on the subsequent test.

41. Are you intentionally withholding from us any information regarding your current relationship with identity C? Answer: No (Weak reaction). There was a weak reaction when the question was repeated on the subsequent test.

Conclusions:

(a) Subject was a sensitive medium strength reactor. Subject did not exhibit on this series of tests any of the unusual nervous tension exhibited on the 6 June 1952 tests. At that time some of the charts were almost unreadable. During the present interview, test control questions were asked of Subject to help establish his deception pattern and his capability to exhibit a more nervous tension. An analysis of the graphs and interviews do not indicate attempts at deception by Subject to the questions asked although all of the reactions to the questions asked were not fully resolved. The examiner made his decision on the bases of the following factors:

1. The complete absence of the usual emotional nervous tension associated with a person practicing deception as exhibited in Subjects 1952 tests.
2. The fact that Subject is a sensitive medium strength reactor and the test control questions used helped to establish his deception pattern.

UNCLASSIFIED

3. The fact that many of the medium strength emotional disturbances to the relevant questions were easily resolved and were attributed to minor personal problems of an embarrassing nature. This reduces the seriousness of the unresolved reactions, of the same a lesser magnitude, to the other relevant questions asked.

(b) Subject was very cooperative during the interviews and tests. It is suggested that Subject be retested in about one year to help fully resolve the unresolved emotional disturbances to the questions asked on the test.
